Hahnemann House Trust

The British Homeopathic Association is the trustee of the Hahnemann House Trust (Registered Charity No 252702).

The financial statements of Hahnemann House Trust are not consolidated with those of the British Homeopathic Association.

Statement of trustees' responsibilities

The trustees (who are also the directors of The British Homeopathic Association for the purposes of company law) are responsible for preparing the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice).

Company law requires the trustees to prepare financial statements for each financial year that give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the charitable company and of the outgoing resources and application of resources, including the income and expenditure, of the charitable company for that period. In preparing these financial statements the trustees are required to:

- select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently;
- observe the methods and principles of the SORP;
- make judgments and estimates that are reasonable and prudent;
- state whether applicable UK Accounting Standards have been followed, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the financial statements;
- prepare the financial statements on the going-concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the charitable company will continue in business.

The trustees are responsible for keeping proper accounting records which disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the charitable company and to enable them to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Companies Act 2006. They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the charitable company and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

In so far as the trustees are aware:

- there is no relevant audit information of which the charitable company's auditor is unaware; and
- the trustees have taken all steps that they ought to have taken to make themselves aware of any relevant audit information and to establish that the auditor is aware of that information.

Trustees

The trustees are also directors for the purposes of the Companies Act 2006.

The method of appointment of trustees is contained in the governing documents. Trustees are also members of the British Homeopathic Association Council and simultaneously guarantee members of the company.

Before new trustees are appointed, a review of the skills mix of the trustee body is undertaken and appropriate measures taken to recruit new trustees with skills that will fill any identified gaps. New trustees are invited to attend an induction meeting and receive a comprehensive overview of the charity, its work and governance. Trustees regularly review their need for additional training to fulfil their role.

The names of those trustees who served during the year are listed on the contents page.

No trustee had any financial interest in the British Homeopathic Association. No trustee has received any remuneration, aside from out-of-pocket expenses, from the British Homeopathic Association

Results

Net movement in funds was £138,995 (2009: deficit of £133,615). The total reserves of the British Homeopathic Association (including the permanent endowments) stand at £1,217,753 (2009: £1,078,758).

Objects and activities during the year

Principal activities

The principal objects of the charity are to promote and develop the study and practice of homeopathy and to advance education and research in the theory and practice of homeopathy provided that the useful results of such research shall be published.

The British Homeopathic Association's overall priority is to ensure that homeopathy is available to all by means of:

1. Providing information about homeopathy
2. Developing the evidence base for homeopathy
3. Encouraging the education and training in homeopathy of healthcare professionals
4. Ensuring patients have access to homeopathy
5. Fundraising to support all of the above.

In reviewing the public benefit requirement the trustees have given due consideration to the Charity Commission published guidance on the operation of the Public Benefit Requirement.

The Association's plan for the year, sets out its key aims under each of these headings and considerable progress was made over the year in meeting these aims to better achieve our priorities. Over the year, the trustees have continued to be vigilant of the financial markets and possible effects to the Association's resources and impact to its on-going work. The Association's decision last year to cut budgeted expenditure and streamline activities reaped benefits this year and finds the Association financially secure at year end.

Homeopathy and NHS homeopathic services more specifically have been negatively impacted by the media coverage of homeopathy generated by the House of Commons Science and Technology Committee evidence check and report on homeopathy conducted from November 2009 to February 2010. The government in response strongly backed patients' rights to access homeopathy on the NHS. This report which was criticised by one of the committee's own members as lacking appropriate process, continues to be used by Primary Care Trusts (PCTs) and Health Boards as a reason to reconsider funding of homeopathy even though the government has publicly stated homeopathy should be available to patients. The coalition government plans to shift purchasing power in England and Wales from PCTs to GP consortia by April 2013 which could be helpful for homeopathy. The times are challenging for homeopathy but the Association continues undaunted and inspired in its work to educate and inform patients, public, medical professionals and decision makers on the value of homeopathy in healthcare.

Summary of the Association's achievements against our plans

Providing information to the public

A core objective of the BHA is to provide information to the public which is authoritative, accurate, and helpful which enables the public to make informed choices about homeopathy. This is achieved through both proactive means via web, print and other communication vehicles as well as reactively responding to media stories via letter or interview. This year the Association has significantly increased the number of people it has been able to help through its many communication channels.

Generally there is a lack of knowledge about homeopathy in the public; what it is, how it can be used and where to get treatment. A key gateway for provision of information is through the web and to increase the number of people the Association can assist, the development and use of the website and other ecommunication vehicles is a priority. Over the year we have seen growing numbers using our website and being part of our virtual communication streams. Here is a snapshot of some key figures for the year:

- Website hits totalled over 3 million for the year, nearly 1 million more than last year.
- There were 552,875 pages viewed this year an increase of 26% over last year.
- There were nearly 70,000 searches to find a statutorily regulated homeopathic practitioner.
- The research section had 5,643 unique visitors during the year an increase of over 700 visitors.
- The Association's Facebook page gained 360 new members over the year to reach a total of 1121
- The free e-newsletter called BHA Bytes has just over 3000 subscribers.

The Association also produces Health & Homeopathy a patient focussed magazine three times a year. The magazine continues to be popular with donors and with homeopathic practitioners as a resource for news and information, which also acts as a homeopathic community building tool and also provides excellent content for the website.

Besides the web, the best way to reach the greatest number of people is to have the Association featured on television, radio or in the press. Over the year the Association has had the opportunity to increase its media presence largely due to the publicity surrounding the Science and Technology Committee report resulting in interviews on all major television networks and a large number of radio stations. These appearances allowed the Association to provide accurate information to counter the misinformation which feeds negative stories and also permitted the Association to reach out to a much larger audience. In addition to television and radio, there were numerous articles in all the major newspapers quoting the BHA over the year.

In an effort to counter the media attack on homeopathy, the Association has taken professional advice and has been working more collaboratively with other homeopathic and non-homeopathic organisations to identify the best vehicles and strategies to employ to have messages about homeopathy heard by the public and decision makers. This is work that will pay dividends in future and during the year a number of favourable articles were placed in Bella and Closer as well in Action ME a charity magazine.

British Homeopathic Association

Developing the evidence base for homeopathy

Developing the evidence base and robustly disseminating the current evidence is fundamental in gaining greater acceptance of homeopathy by decision makers and the public. This year, the evidence base for homeopathy came under intense scrutiny stemming from the House of Commons Science and Technology Committee evidence check on homeopathy. The Association played a critical role in providing a submission to the committee, the organisation's Research Development Adviser provided verbal testimony during committee hearings and the Association provided feedback and critique to the public and press as issues developed over the year correcting the misinterpretation and misrepresentation of the actual evidence for homeopathy. This information is vital in assisting the public to make informed choices and assist patients in securing homeopathic treatment on the NHS.

In order to build the evidence base the BHA continues to carry out data collection of current practice, perform an analysis and have the results published. An extensive veterinary data collection programme was analysed and broken down between equine, feline and canine data last year. The resulting paper on the equine data was published in the Veterinary Record and a paper on canine and feline data appeared in the October 2010 issue of Homeopathy. A dental data collection is complete, with analysis and possible publication of results in 2011. In addition to the veterinary work, a data collection pilot study was implemented at the Royal London Hospital for Integrated Medicine using iPods in July. An extended pilot, planned to run over a one month period across several clinics will be conducted in 2011.

Patients and statutorily regulated homeopathic practitioners need to have accurate information about the current evidence to make informed choices and often defend their case that homeopathy is an appropriate treatment. The Association has made a two-page synopsis of the evidence available on the website, as well as an evidence document indexed by condition; both are updated regularly as new studies are published. These two items are regularly the most popular downloads on the site, averaging a combined total of close to 300 downloads per month.

Encouraging the education and training in homeopathy of healthcare professionals

The BHA supports the Faculty of Homeopathy through an annual grant to help fund its work to increase the number of healthcare professionals trained in homeopathy. This work is essential as the BHA believes that a doctor or other health professional trained in homeopathy is best placed to offer patients integrated care, using homeopathy when it is most appropriate. It is also through doctors and other health care practitioners working in the NHS that more of the public can, at no cost, be introduced to and benefit from homeopathy.

It is important that there are doctors and other health care practitioners undergoing training in homeopathy and over the year there has been a small drop in enrolment on Faculty accredited training programmes in the UK. The Faculty and its accredited teaching centres continue to advertise courses and in the coming year the Faculty will be reviewing advertising strategies, implementing new approaches and developing online training which will hopefully result a rebound in enrolment figures.

Retention of students as well as the number of students who will undertake exams and gain qualifications is always a concern for if there are no qualified doctors and other health care practitioners the less opportunity there is for patients to benefit from homeopathy. The number candidates successfully sitting the MFHom exam more than doubled, increasing to 11 this year compared with 5 last year. This is a result of the Faculty restructuring and implementing a new examination process focussing on course-based assessment where exams occur throughout the course allowing the final clinical exam to be one day only. This is the modern method of assessment used in universities and is more appealing to the statutorily regulated health care professionals undertaking the exam.

Encouraging the education and training in homeopathy of healthcare professionals (continued)

Growth in the number of doctors and other health care professionals that have some knowledge and interest in homeopathy is pivotal to patients being able to access homeopathic care. It is part of the medical curriculum that all medical students have an introduction to Complementary and Alternative Medicine (CAM) and as such many Faculty-accredited teaching centres and teachers have offered special study modules in homeopathy to medical students across the country. These special study modules are usually a multi-week defined educational programme with the Faculty's Primary Health Care Exam used as an end point assessment tool. In the past year there were 19 students who took the exam which remains a healthy number.

Ensuring patients have access to homeopathy

The BHA wishes to see homeopathy fully available throughout primary and secondary care for all who could benefit from it and ideally freely in the NHS. The priorities during the year were assisting patients with securing referrals, helping patients find a practitioner, developing a clinic in Norwich and helping local groups with campaigns to protect patients' access to NHS services.

Securing NHS referrals for homeopathic treatment is dependant on a patient's Primary Care Trust if living in England and Wales. Often there can be hurdles to getting referred for homeopathic treatment, this could include having to put a case before an Exceptional Treatments Panel. Patients approach the BHA for assistance by email, phone and search our website for help on how to best secure a referral. The BHA website is full of useful information and is often the first place patients look for information. The patient advice pages were a popular resource with 45,465 hits for the year.

The website also allowed the public to easily find a statutorily regulated homeopathic practitioner by postcode, city, profession and country with information updated weekly. The practitioner search facility on the website which is updated weekly had nearly 70,000 searches over the year helping thousands of people to find a homeopathic health care practitioner.

Development of an East Anglia clinic in Norwich advanced over the year but was hindered when the GP surgery space that was going to be rented became unavailable. New possible sites have been found and it is anticipated the clinic will open in 2011. Ideally the Association would like to secure additional funding to augment the charitable gift provided to start the clinic, to ensure five years operation. It will be run as a charitable clinic in an NHS

The BHA over the year supported local campaigns to retain NHS services by providing advice, publicising events and news in Health and Homeopathy and on the website, writing to local authorities and PCTs if needed, providing template letters for patients to use and keeping other homeopathic organisations informed. In the coming year it is anticipated that there are more areas needing such assistance.

Fundraising to support our aims

In order to fund its work the BHA needs to find new sources of income and ensure that it works efficiently and cost-effectively. The aim is to raise funds from individuals and trusts as a complement to legacies, which are unpredictable. Over the year the Association has been more successful than last year in securing funding from charities and other organisations for specific ongoing work.

Legacies worth £196,243 were receivable during the year including those from the estates of Lilian N Clayson, Margaret McCreath, Alva Baden Norman, Gladys Simmons and Marion Tupper. The trustees are extremely grateful to each of these generous benefactors.

Over the year there was a concerted effort to find and retain Friends. During the year we welcomed 81 new Friends. There were a total of 1595 Friends at the end of the year.

The Association is extremely grateful for the continuing support of our Friends who are pivotal to its vitality. Friends' donations came to £56,653. Other donations totalled £93,095. We are very grateful to all our Friends and donors including the The Friends of Tunbridge Wells Homeopathic Hospital, The Samuel Goodenough Trust and Gift aid of £7,257 was receivable this year, slightly down from 2009. This is reflective of a decrease in regular annual giving.

Royalties this year decreased to £1,097 (2009: £3,339).

Corporate

The Faculty of Homeopathy

Much of the Association's work is closely connected with the Faculty of Homeopathy, whose members support the BHA by providing their professional expertise. The Faculty is the only professional body that represents statutorily registered homeopathic practitioners - doctors, dentists, nurses, midwives, pharmacists, podiatrists and vets qualified in homeopathy. It ensures the highest standards of homeopathic training, education and practice and has over 1,100 members who find the quality of their patient care and professional satisfaction has been improved by learning about and using homeopathy in their daily work. It is also the leading authority on homeopathic medicine, working to convince government, the medical establishment and decision-makers of the need for homeopathy to be fully integrated in healthcare systems in the UK and around the world in order ensure that the benefits of homeopathy are as widely available as possible.

Future developments

The Association will continue its work in its four key areas of activity – information, access, research and training underpinned by fundraising. In the coming year fundraising to support our activities and effectively promoting homeopathy particularly through the internet will be core objectives.

Key aims during the coming year are to increase effectiveness of proactive media work by working with patrons to bring greater attention to the Association's messages by the public; enhance and modify website to increase its effectiveness, survey supporters; increase the number of grant applications made; work with other associations to increase impact of proactive messages and fundraising; launch charitable clinic in Norwich; increase the number of statutorily regulated health professionals undertaking homeopathic training; develop support information to help practitioners bid for contracts with GP groups.

The Association has agreed to take Trusteeship of the Bath Homeopathic Hospital and Dispensary Trust (registered charity number: 205568) which will be finalised in 2011.

British Homeopathic Association

Corporate governance

The trustees, acting as the Council for the BHA, meet four times a year to consider the performance of the British Homeopathic Association against its business plan, to consider matters specifically reserved for their attention as laid down in the governing documents and to direct the executive officers of the Association as they consider appropriate.

A small sub-group of the trustees act to advise Council on financial matters, including the appointment of financial advisers and guidance on financial controls and another sub-group advises Council on communications and marketing matters.

Work relating to the highly specialised field of research are delegated to the Homeopathic Research Committee, a properly constituted sub-Committee. This sub-Committee formally reports its actions to the trustees annually and provides written updates at more regular intervals.

In addition, the staff team of the British Homeopathic Association, led by the Chief Executive, meets regularly to discuss and implement strategic issues as directed by the trustees and to monitor and control the performance of the charity on the authority delegated by the trustees.

Organisational structure

The Association and Faculty of Homeopathy have seven full-time and two part-time staff between them the majority of who work for both organisations. In addition, the Association buys in freelance expertise as required for specialist work.

Reserves policy

The charity relies on fully funding its planned level of activities from either legacies and donations or retained reserves. Since legacy income, which is the Association's main source of income, is very unpredictable in both amount and timing, the trustees have formed the view that it would be prudent to maintain reserves at a level which would support the activities of the charity projected three to five years forward.

The charity determines an operating deficit by deducting sustainable income from the cost of its planned activities level for a three to five year period. It ensures that sufficient reserves are retained by the charity to meet this operating deficit. In this way planned increases or enforced decreases in activity levels can be managed smoothly.

Free reserves are those funds which are unrestricted and not designated to a particular purpose and can be freely used to pay for day-to-day operations. The level of free reserves at the end of 2010 was £926,805. The forecasted operating deficit for the next three years is £450,000 which is well within the amount of free reserves.

British Homeopathic Association

Investment policy

The trustees have established an Investment Policy appropriate to the needs of the charity. Consequently investments have been made through a variety of short and medium funds managed by fund managers, Rensburg Sheppards.

The objectives of the investment policy are to ensure creation of sufficient income and capital growth to enable the charity to carry out its purposes consistently year by year with due and proper consideration for future needs and maintenance of and if possible enhancement of the value of invested funds. Performance is reviewed regularly with the fund managers who provide benchmarking of fund performance against the market in all their quarterly reports.

The trustees believe that the funds have been managed in accordance with the established policy.

Grant making policy

The BHA has a clear policy that it does not have the resources to be a public grant making body at this time. We encourage partners and those of compatible objectives to our own to call on the expertise of BHA staff and Faculty members. For example, rather than funding a piece of research, staff may provide advice on putting together a research proposal that attracts funding from another body.

The main exception to this principle will be grants awarded to other organisations to fulfil core BHA/Faculty of Homeopathy functions on a 'contract' basis at the agreement of trustees.

Risk management

The Association review key risks every meeting and regularly review the full schedule of risks. Significant risks addressed each meeting focus on issues of financial security of the charity, appropriate staffing and retention of organisational knowledge to ensure the Association meets objectives and appropriate governance to ensure the charity meets statutory and organisational obligations.

Employees

The Association is committed to equal opportunities. Conditions of employment are set out in the Staff Handbook.

1 Accounting policies

Accounting policies have remained unchanged from the previous year.

Basis of preparation.

The financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention, as modified by the revaluation of fixed asset investments, and are in accordance with (i) applicable accounting standards and (ii) the Statement of Recommended Practice "Accounting and Reporting by charities" (2005) and (iii) the Companies Act 2006, including Part 15 relating to small companies

Income

Income from subscriptions, donations and legacies are included in the financial statements on a receivable basis. All other income is accounted on an accruals basis.

Resources expended

The Association incurs four categories of expenditure, they are: cost of generating funds, charitable activities, support costs and governance. All categories of expenditure are accounted for on an accruals basis.

A cost for generating funds includes fundraising and publicity costs as well as investment management fees. Charitable expenditure includes the direct costs of planning, staffing and operating activities. The cost of generating funds and support costs include administration, depreciation, staffing and other overheads, which have been allocated to the other main categories on a staff time basis. Governance expenditure includes audit fees and council expenses and an allocation of indirect costs, all being incurred for the constitutional offices of the charitable company.

Tangible fixed assets

Tangible fixed costs with a value of £500 or more are capitalised.

Depreciation

Depreciation is provided to write off the cost or valuation, less estimated residual values, of all fixed assets, over their expected useful lives. It is calculated at the following rates:

Office equipment, fixtures and equipment	-	10% or 33% reducing balance
Computer equipment	-	33%
Council regalia	-	10 years

Fund accounting

General funds are available for use at the discretion of the trustees in pursuing the general charitable objectives of the charity and which have not been designated for other purposes.

Designated funds comprise unrestricted funds that have been set aside by the trustees for particular purposes.

Restricted funds are created when funds (whether income or capital in nature) are given to, or raised by, the charity for use in a particular area or for a specific purpose only.

Endowment Funds

These are assets, which must be held permanently by the British Homeopathic Association. The changes to the value of the fund are reflected in the SOFA as realised and unrealised gains or losses.

Gifts in kind

The Association includes individual gifts in kind where these are worth in excess of £500.

Investments

Investments are shown at market value. The unrealised movement in market value from one year to another is taken to the appropriate fund. The market value of investments is determined by reference to stock exchange prices at the balance sheet date. Gains or losses arising during the year are disclosed in the Statement of Financial Activities (SOFA).

Operating leases

Rentals applicable to operating leases where substantially all of the benefits and risks of ownership remain with the lessor are charged to the statement of financial resources.

Taxation status

The Association as a registered charity does not incur corporation tax and reclaims any recoverable tax suffered on investment income.

Pensions

The company contributes to individual staff's pension schemes, whose assets are maintained separately from those of the Association. The pension charge represents the amounts payable by the company to the funds during the year.

Emoluments

The Council Members who are the directors of the company do not receive emoluments for their services nor do contracts of services exist between the council members and the company.
